Six-Hour Relay needs you!

RELAYS are the best fun you can have, while vertical, and without laughing.

So where are all our 6-Hour Relay entrants?

This is a terrific event, as all those who took part over the past couple of years will agree. It's set for Saturday, November 9, 7am, at Yokine Reserve, and there will be teams for walkers and runners.

Some members may remember the course, which we used to race over during the Deadly Medley.

How it works

Each entrant will probably cover no more than 12km over the six-hour duration. Each team is made up of six people, and each person runs/walks a 2km lap before handing over the baton.

I took part a couple of years ago and found I had a rest of about 40 minutes before setting off again. That's plenty of time to recover, drink and eat sparingly, provided you stretch and jog a bit to avoid stiffening.

The camaraderie is infectious – as in any relay – and we really did all enjoy a great morning.

So, please join us!

Helpers welcome!

IT'S a great help to have supporters and a cheer-squad at events like this.

You could also help with a bit of lap-scoring – massage? – fanning? plus general morale-boosting. Photographers welcome too! VW

UPHILL BATTLE

Wireless Hill's finish is one of our toughest, but some runners can still lift for the final bend. Results and more pictures – pages 7-8.

Do you know your help dates?

All Sunday competitors are required to help out at two events each year.

This isn't much to ask! You can still compete, attend or just enjoy dozens of other events in the year. However, it seems that some members have a problem remembering the dates they have selected as their help dates.

If you do not advise the Race Director of the event for which you are listed – in the two weeks prior to the event – that you are unavailable this can have a serious effect on the safety of our members.

Please check the helpers list – on the website, and/or in Vetrun – to see the dates you have nominated. At the website go to the 'Road' tab then 'Helper List' then click on 'Helper List 2013-14'.

Alternatively, contact me on young.gillian@hotmail.com and I can let you know your help dates.

IWB Basel "Run To The Beat" Marathon

– 22nd Sept 2013

I WAS in Basel, Switzerland on 22nd September at the end of my Swiss holiday with my wife to do the IWB Basel "Run To The Beat" Marathon which is a 2 lap course around the city area and finishing in the beautiful old part of town.

Apart from the scenery and beautiful city, the town of Basel in the north western part of Switzerland is famous for producing one Roger Federer. So it was no surprise to see plenty of tennis courts around the city area.

"Run To The Beat" really means "Run To The Beat" in that they have a dedicated FM radio frequency to tune in and listen while you run if you wish. There is also numerous points along the course where large speakers are belting out the music being played on their frequency.

The start line was within walking distance of the hotel which made getting to the start easy. The weather was a cool misty morning about 8°C and perfect for running. The first 21km loop was a tour of discovery, seeing parts of the city I hadn't seen and the second lap was enjoying it all over again.

Worry not, he hasn't broken training. Sensible bloke, Peter: claims he took just 'a few sips'. Probably didn't even inhale. However, with this kind of after-race hospitality I think John Pellier and Brian Danby might consider Basel next year?

The finish area included being able to hydrate with as much beer as you could drink and a lot of the runners took advantage of this – I thought it would be wise to not over-indulge so a few sips were enough for me.

All in all, a very well organised run which I would thoroughly recommend.

And finally, this run now means more to me than you will ever know because three days prior to the run, my father passed away in Melbourne so on the urging of my mother, I ran and dedicated it to his memory – I seemed to float home in the last few K's thinking about him – so much so that I won my age category by over eight minutes!

Love you Dad.

*Cheers, Peter Sullivan

Brazilians

HALF the club seem to be at the World Champs in Porto Alegre but as we tie up this edition only the cross-country results are up on the website. Jackie Halberg (silver medal), Bjorn Dybdahl and Bob Schickert were in it, Bob's team taking a gold medal.

We won't know if David Carr becomes the IAAF Masters Athlete of the Year until October 28, after the games finish. But keep checking our site for the latest news.

Photographers

I'LL always try to credit members' photographic efforts in Vetrun, so this time, thanks go to the Smiths, Frank and Colin – great double act – for their efforts at Mattagarup and the GOT.

I have suggested to webmaster Hamish that the volunteers supplying pictures for the site should be acknowledged there. No joy so far – so come on, Hamish!

Trophies

THERE have been many requests, but despite them I have photographed the Timeless Trophy so you can all see what you're missing.

MELBOURNE report by Sandra Stockman, who ran this year's Melbourne in a 3:10 (a PB by two minutes) and won her W45 age group.

Wayne Taylor is close to fulfilling his new year's resolution – to run three marathons and climb three major mountains in 2013.

After the Melbourne run, which he finished in 3:45, he just has to conquer Mt Kilimanjaro!

Bob Lane – 3:09 – was first in his M65 age group; Ante Perdija (bit younger) was not far behind, with 3:13. Another of our younger members, Hamish McLeod ran 3:59 in his first marathon.

In the half, Ross Keane and Karen Peace stuck together to complete the run in 1:44.

Conditions were superb – coolish at the start, a bit of sun by 8 o'clock but mainly overcast, a little light rain later and virtually no wind.

This probably helped both the men's and women's winners to break the course records. Lisa Weightman, a Melbourne girl, won the women's race, earning herself a place in the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow next year. There were 34,000 competitors in total, with about 8,000 competing in the marathon.

GOT Run Hale School

October 6, 2013

Directors: Vic Waters & Frank Smith

"TELL us something we don't know." So I am always beseeching race directors. For instance: have you ever seen the toilets at the Paris Hilton? Spectacular: an Egyptian-palace with rich engravings, tiles and marble, they even have hundreds of hand-towels stacked in pyramids.

What's that to do with the GOT Run?

Ask anyone lucky enough to have used Hale School's new ladies' loos. They are installed at the cricket pavilion we use as base for this annual event. And as Hale is an all-boys establishment I don't suppose the porcelain suffers much wear and tear.

Paris? Non

So give Paris a miss. With a kitchen for the indomitable morning-tea providing Beaumonts; spacious changing rooms; a shady verandah and a delightful outlook, this location is one of our finest — judging by the number of members who hang around afterwards.

I usually have to throw them out before night falls, in order to make the rounds, and lock all the gates that give us access to a varied, mixed-terrain course.

Thanks due

Helpers seem to like this one too.

Road marshals Ray Gimi and Neil McRae have been rooted in place for years. Estimates-queen Eileen Ferris is the only person who really understands the system. John Byrne, his daughter Andrea and her children provide hydration. New lady Ali Menegola took the finishers' numbers, totally efficiently.

That leaves Frank Smith and me. Our main job is to shout at runners and stop them cheating. Oh yes, Frank has a trifling duty, marking the course, which he has turned into a life's work. At least it keeps him out of the pub.

Trophies

Need I say that these — the Timeless Trophy, and the Alarm Clock — are unique? The original, the big one bearing a curious similarity to a piece of table-leg studded with broken watch and clock parts, is actually a craftsman's masterpiece, cunningly disguised to resemble a load of old rubbish (for insurance purposes).

The alarm clock I bought just to give the walkers and short-course runners something to live for.

So, race directors; there you go. Tell us something we don't know!

Mattagarup Run

(Half Marathon Course)

September 22, 2013

Director: Committee

HERE'S some more stuff you probably didn't know.

The club committee took charge of the Mattagarup this year, in the absence of designated directors. They changed the course a bit, for simplicity's sake.

They also dispensed entirely with markers!

How do I know this? Because Richard Danks congratulated Richard Blurton on a well-marked course, only to be told they hadn't marked it at all.

Fair enough. It would have been difficult for any of us to go wrong, unless we swam.

And Richard's confusion was caused because the Marathon Club had markers out along the same course.

Soggy

I only noticed one marshal, Chris Frampton, whose job was to guard the massive puddle where we turned onto the Windan Bridge. Chris did really well, constantly re-filling the puddle so that everyone had an equal chance of soaking.

Apparently the full cast of helpers was: Sylvia Szabo, Carol Bowman, Colin Smith, Paul Hughes, Chris Koeman, Chris Frampton, Mike Anderson, Merv Jones, John Fisher; and MC, Richard Blurton. V W

Mattagarup Conference

An escape committee formed, and eventually concluded that, though deep, the puddle was not a health hazard.

Colin Smith took advantage of the club camera to show off his sensitive, artistic side with these studies of intrepid and dedicated members.

Sorry Mike, have no osprey pics. Will this do? I see a lot of these.

The weather this year was dry but very windy which made the event particularly tiring. Very creditable times were achieved on this challenging course regardless. Fewer competitors than usual chose the 8kms option settling for either 5km or 13km.

Johan and I had the previous week re-measured these distances by my new satellite watch and we found that the 8km and 13km distances are very accurate as we had known. We also re-confirmed that the 5km is actually 'longish' ▶

My appreciation for my co-race supremo, Johan – who stays calm through whatever mini-crisis should arise – and to our helpers both regular and new, who proved reliable, competent and good humoured. So, please, we want all you helpers back next year! Of course, our thanks go also to every walker and runner who competed, whether speedy or slow, and thereby made the magic event.

Director: Chris Reid

M45 Andrew Davison's stylish start was sustained to the finish – 9.5km in 37:53.

AN amazingly perfect spring morning was compensation for the hard yakka of these hills. At least the longest downhill has been tarmac-ed, which makes for a safer descent.

Thanks to Chris Reid (and Mrs Reid) it all seemed to go smoothly enough. Neil McRae did his bit too, collecting the gear from Hale and delivering in good time. Other helpers – including Peggy MacLiver with the club camera – thanks.

Noted and welcomed also – Tasmanian migrants Sandy and Brigitte who are back in Perth 'indefinitely'.

After my own wimpish one-lapper I snapped the great finish of John Allen and Paul Odam – see back page. VW
